

Land management consultancy and training services

Bumblebees are an important and cherished component of our biodiversity. Several species are threatened with national extinction in the UK. The Bumblebee Conservation Trust aims to ensure that populations of these species have a long-term future.

Our science and conservation specialists offer bespoke advice and support that will help you improve your understanding of bumblebees and how to manage your land for them.

We help businesses and organisations to:

- Meet sustainability targets
- Create thriving environments for people and wildlife to enjoy
- Support biodiversity recovery
- Learn more about our most iconic pollinators
- Upskill staff

Our services provide:

- Support with Biodiversity Net Gain
- Land management advice specific to your site
- Ongoing monitoring and specialist surveying
- Educational sessions for any audience
- Training in bumblebee monitoring and land management for bumblebee conservation

Contact us at:
consultancy@bumblebeeconservation.org

www.bumblebeeconservation.org

The Bumblebee Conservation Trust is a registered charity (England & Wales 1115634 / Scotland SC042830).
Company registration number 05618710 (England & Wales).

August 2023. BBCT219. Copyright 2023 ©. All rights reserved. Designed by dianaedwardsdesign.co.uk